

Group Resume

To create the group resume, first learn about the individuals in your group. Work through the following categories, writing down key points on the flip chart.

1. Name, organization, how long have you been training?
 2. What type of course do you enjoy teaching the most?
 3. What are two different training audiences you've worked with?
 4. What are two skills you feel you are good at?
 5. What is your favorite hobby?
 6. What is your cultural background? Where are your parents and grandparents from?
 7. What languages do you speak?

Creating a Group Resume

Activity: Participants work together in small groups of 8 to create a "group resume" that summarizes the array of talents, skills and experiences of the group. Groups then get together and present this information to each other.

How it Works:

Each group:

- ▶ Learns about individuals in the group (by discussing questions provided).
- ▶ Picks a facilitator and scribe to keep track of discussion.
- ▶ Prepares a 2-3 minute presentation that highlights the strengths/interests of the entire group.

How would you promote your group to others?

- ▶ Presents your group resume to a few other groups.

Challenge: Be creative, innovative, participatory!
